

South Plains Electric Cooperative Operation Round Up Community Grants

The giving members of South Plains Electric Cooperative make the Operation Round Up Fund possible. The money received provides local organizations with financial support, so they can make a difference in our community. To learn more, visit SPEC.coop/operationroundup.

The Bruce Long Food Pantry realized it was short on funds at the end of the year, so they applied and were granted a community grant from Operation Round Up. With this grant, and the help of volunteers, they delivered Christmas boxes to 29 families. They used the remaining money to continue providing for the community of Jayton.

Refuge Services was able to purchase new equine dental equipment to care for their horses. Refuge Services provides equine-assisted therapies to individuals of all ages across the Texas Panhandle. Their Operation Round Up community grant is changing the lives of not only their clients, but their horses' health is improving too.

The Bicentennial City-County Library provides printing and copying services to the community of Paducah, free of charge. Thankfully, when they needed a new printer, they were able to purchase one with the Operation Round Up community grant funds they received. They are making a difference in their community one page at a time.
